

Dear,

Following on from the email below which I sent you on [date], we've already gained support from 50% of the owners at [building name] in favour of forming an RTM. This will give us influence over how our money is spent, allow us to make improvements, and make the property manager report to the residents instead of reporting to nobody. All of us want to make [building name] a better place to live and the same persistent problems are unlikely to be resolved under [property manager] management. The reason for this follow-up email is because of xx flats at [building name] we still need the support from xx owners to take us up to 50% of the building. We kindly ask for your support or to forward this to your landlord. Either way, your response is appreciated.

If you have any questions and would like to speak, please let me know so we can arrange a call.

Kind regards,
